CHINA BLACK TEAS		VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
1011	Keemun Hao Ya, Superfine	Keemun's distinctive, unique aroma may be enjoyed in a first grade tea, but for the quality of plucking and workmanship, Hao Ya Keemuns are hard to beat.
1013	Keemun Hao Ya A	Produced in very limited quantities. Numerous tips; a prized tea. The best of Anhui's Keemun black teas.
1014	Keemun Hao Ya B
1019	Keemun Maofeng, Superfine	Mellow flavor with a hint of sweetness. Curled, slender, twisted leaves showing gold tips. Many know of Keemun's identification with Anhui, but fewer are familiar with Keemun as a Maofeng.
1016	Keemun Maofeng, Fancy	Near Yixing, the area known for purple clay teapots, this black is refined and elegant.
1017	"Azalea" Tippy Black (Fuliang)
1018	Gold Silk	Prominent gold tips and fine leaves give this tea its name.
1019	Keemun Maofeng, Fancy
1020	High Aroma Keemun
1022	Fragrant Keemun Spiral
1026A	Purple Bamboo Black
1033	Honeysuckle Black, Pre-Qingming
1035	Golden Peony
1036	Dan Cong Black (Single Trunk)	These teas from trees are renowned for their roasted-grain aroma and lingering fruity finish reminiscent of longan; now available as a black tea.
1038	Honey Black (Taiwan)	From Taiwan's broad leafed cultivar; cup has inviting caramel notes.
1039	Ruby Black (Taiwan)
1042	Ancient Wild Tree Black	Prominent plum flavor; single plucking in the spring.
1043	Super Gold Tribute	Single plucking from Wuyi ~80,000 buds to make 1 kg.
1045	Gold Tribute	Plentiful gold tips among fine black leaves; lingering dried-fruit notes.
1046	Gold Tribute	From northwestern Fujian; single plucking each year. Plentiful tender buds and budsets yield an aromatic cup with a long, caramel finish.
1047	Wild Trees Black
1048	Golden Spiral	Attractive golden tips in the spirals; long toffee, burnt-sugar finish.
1049A	Yunnan Old Tree Black Tea
1050A	Golden Buds	Prize-winning budset tea from Yunnan; soft toffee notes.
1052A	Yunnan Gold Thread	From a Yunnan region associated with the historic Ancient Tea Horse Road (Southern Silk Road).
1053	Yunnan Gold Tip, Rare	Preponderance of gold tips; limited quantities.
1054	Yunnan Gold Tip, Special Grade	Abundant gold tips; a good addition to upgrade your Yunnan Black selection.
1054A	Yunnan Gold Tip, Special Gr.
1056	Yunnan FOP, Special Grade	Finer, more tips, and smoother than 1057.
1056A	Yunnan FOP, Special Gr.
1057E	Yunnan FOP, EU	Brisk, fine-leaf tea with golden tips; full aroma. Yunnan Black Teas are known for their soft, round flavor.
1059	Golden Gunpowder	Familiar Gunpowder shape with gold accents. Brews a deep russet color with substantial body. It has a long finish with the aromatic bite of a weighty black. Intense, full.
1062	Golden Monkey, Extra Fancy	Once little known, this Black tea has become increasingly popular, and rightly so: showy golden tips lend great visual appeal, and fine, slightly curled leaves yield a sweet aroma and a warming finish.
1063	Golden Monkey, Fancy
1063A	Golden Monkey, Fancy
1064	Golden Monkey
1071	Sichuan Tippy Gold	A little known Black from Sichuan; lots of flavor that can compete with a Yunnan or Keemun.
1075	Wuyi Honey Black
1081	Golden Sprouting Buds	Large, robust coppery-gold buds.
1084	Yingde #9 Black
1086	Bai Lin Black
1111	Keemun Congou, Special Grade	Famous for its superb flavor and aroma; best of the congou teas, attractive leaf, fine and twisted. Complex, distinctive fragrance. Higher grades have uniform, slender leaves with more pronounced Keemun flavor.
1112	Keemun Congou, Second Grade
1112A	Keemun Congou, 2nd Gr.
1114	Keemun Congou
1115	China OP, Keemun County (case only)	Classic Orange Pekoe with a soft finish, suitable for blending or as is. Slender, rolled and twisted leaves.
1125	China OP, Keemun County (case only)
1131	China OP	Dark, more robust leaves. Good for iced tea.
1131A	China OP
1133	China OP (case only)	Well balanced with good leaf appearance. For blending or as is.
1204	China BOP (case only)	Broken Orange Pekoe; the small cut lends itself to blends and iced tea.
LAPSANG SOUCHONG
1821	Lapsang Souchong	From the mountains of North Fujian, leaves are processed over pinewood fires so that they may absorb the smoky aroma. Fine-leafed.
1822	Lapsang Souchong	Longer, more robust leaves; hearty and bold.
1822A	Lapsang Souchong
1824	Lapsang Souchong

BLENDS		VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
1104	Irish Breakfast	A blend of Assam and other Indian Black teas yield a deep amber, robust cup.
1104A	Irish Breakfast
1105	English Breakfast	A blend of Keemun, China OP, Ceylon Black.
1105A	English Breakfast
1818	Russian Caravan	A touch of Lapsang Souchong adds heft to this blend, enhanced by Silver Needles.
SRI LANKA BLACK TEAS
1316	Ceylon Silver Tip FBOPEXSP	From the Balangoda planting district, this Ceylon Black has plentiful silver tips. Situated near the Sinharaja Forest Reserve, the tea gardens are protected from the strong winds of southwest monsoons. This tea makes a delectable cup, with a delicious beginning and a satisfying finish. There is a delicate sweet caramel note beautifully balanced with fine aroma.
1317	Ceylon Fancy Silver Tip	Flowery Orange Pekoe. Very fine and wiry silver tips stand out against the dark OP.
1341	Ceylon OP1	Long slender leaves with a smooth flavor unique to this estate.
1345	Ceylon OPA	Robust leaves, thicker than OP1 teas.
1369	Ceylon Super Pekoe	Large pekoe leaf; thick body.
1373	Ceylon BOP	Fine leaf; brisk; good with a spritz of lemon or for milk tea.
1713	Decaf English Breakfast (CO ₂ , Ceylon)	Leaf is an OP; decaffeination by CO ₂ process.
INDIA ASSAM
1426	Assam GTGFOP1 Clonal	Very bright in the cup. Many gold tips.
1428	Assam Superior SFTGFOP
1428A	Assam Superior SFTGFOP
1430	Assam Clonal GTGFBOP
1431	Assam STGFOP1
1435	Assam SFTGFOP
1436A	Assam FTGFOP1	Suitable for Irish Breakfast.
1438	Assam TGFOP1	Good proportion of gold tips. Rich, full-bodied, satisfying cup.
1445	Assam GFBOP	Also has gold tips; deep red brew. May be used for Irish Breakfast.
1453A	Dooars FTGFOP1 (India)	Deep flavor and full bodied.

1670A	Himalayan Tippy

CHINA GREEN TEAS		VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
1910A	Natural Osmanthus Green, Special Natural Osmanthus Green	Natural osmanthus blossoms are added to green tea; the scenting process is similar to that of jasmine tea processing. The bright blossoms add visual appeal to the tea, and the flavor is softly sweet rather than cloying.
2001	Pi Lo Chun, Premium	Special grade, top of the line. Hand-crafted to produce gentle spirals. Downy tips very evident. When the tea leaves are still warm after de-enzyming, small mounds are rolled by hand in three stages. The delicate, pliant leaves are thus transformed into the familiar spiral shape. Shanghai's favorite.
2002	Rainflower Needles	Deep green, short, pine needle-like leaves distinguish this little known tea. Rainflower Terrace in Nanjing (Jiangsu province) holds historical significance; the area is relatively high and is known for its colorful agate stones. Classic green with prominent sweet notes.
2005	Tian Mu Qing Ding	One of Zhejiang's best know greens, from Mount Tian Mu.
2011	Huang Shan (Yellow Mtn) Maofeng	Fat, golden green buds, memorably sweet, delicate flavor. Association with this scenic locale adds cachet.
2015A	Guzhang Maojian	From little known Guizhou province in the southwest, one of China's "Big 10 Famous Teas". Very neat, finely curled leaves.
2016	Du Yun Green (Guizhou)
2018	Anhui Pearls (Yong Xi Huo Qing) Green	A signature Anhui green; shaped like Gunpowder but far superior plucking rolled into classic pearl shape.
2019	Mount Jiu Hua (9 Summit) Maofeng	From another of Anhui's famed mountains.
2020	Tai Ping Hou Kui	Very long budsets; each one is individually pressed by hand. Bright green leaves yield a delicate brew.
2021	Super Lu'an Melon Seed	One of China's 10 Famous Teas, our Lu'An is hand-rolled, not machine rolled. Some may find it puzzling that a fairly expensive tea like this is not made from buds; in fact, growers separate the buds from the 2nd and 3rd leaves by hand and then process those to make Lu'An (which is named for a county in Anhui province).
2022	Lu'an Melon Seed
2025	Gold Sprouting	Dark, fairly long leaves; cup is cleanly sweet, not overly assertive.
2026A	Orchid Snow Buds
2028	Tea Trail Mountain
2028A	Jade Snail Green
2039A	Yangtze Green Maofeng
2041	Snow Sprouting	Introduced last spring, this tea is plucked just once a year. The leaves are downy soft in appearance; the silver-white hues of the dry tea provide a wonderful teaching opportunity to educate your customers about white teas and green teas. (This one is a green tea.) The cup is notably sweet.
2042A	White Cloud Mtn Yin Hao	(Advance order)
2045	Superfine Golden Green	(Advance order)
2046A	"Pine Needles" Green	Introduced last spring, this tea is plucked just once a year. The leaves are downy soft in appearance; the silver-white hues of the dry tea provide a wonderful teaching opportunity to educate your customers about white teas and green teas. The cup is notably sweet. Single buds, and bud with one leaf (a budset yields more flavor than just a single bud).
2056	Green Silk Maofeng
2064E	Snow Monkey	Thick white strands among darker green leaves; slightly twisted. Budsets show after brewing. Rich-tasting green but without harshness or bite.
2070	Emerald Pearls	Early single-plucking tea from southwestern China; leaves resemble balled Tie Guan Yin, unfurling to produce a truly satisfying cup. A great fit for gongfu pots, rare for a green tea.
2072	Rising Phoenix	For those who truly love China Greens, this is a nice one to try: interesting leaf shape, with prominent chestnutty aroma and flavor that do not dissipate quickly. Long sweet finish. Given their minimalist processing, Green teas tend to be subtle and restrained; this one is a standout.
2074A	Mist on the River	From the Yangtze River region; good proportion of silvery strands.

CHINA GREEN TEAS (CONT'D)		VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
2080	An Ji Bai Pian, Pre-Qingming	In this unusual varietal, the uniform green budsets turn a pale shade of ivory after steeping.
2081	Curled Dragon Silver Tip	One of my personal top five teas, this green expresses hand-crafting (fine rolling and curling), high quality plucking (inspect the infused leaves), and the chestnutty taste that marks the best of China greens.
2082A	Orchid Dew	An green from a Japanese cultivar transplanted in China; deep, refined green flavor. (Adv.order)
2087	Bubbling Spring Rolled Green	Rolled into small pellets, this tea is very different from Gunpowder. When brewed, pellets are transformed to reveal tender yellow-green budsets. Fresh, sweet flavor; very drinkable.
2088A	Dragonwell, Pre-Qingming	From the West Lake region. Delicate golden brew with a lingering, slightly sweet aftertaste. Many budsets in these premium grades. Flat green leaves yield a clear, sweet, yellow brew. Bargain price for distinctive Dragonwell.
2089	Dragonwell, Superfine
2090	Dragonwell, Special Grade
2091	Dragonwell, First Grade
2092	Dragonwell, Second Grade
2092A	Dragonwell, 2nd Grade
2093	Dragonwell
2093A	Dragonwell
2094	Dragonwell
2101A	Himalayan Honey Green	An early-spring, single-plucking tea from Nepal; wonderful aroma with honeysuckle notes.
2112	Lake Tai Green Maofeng	Well shaped maofeng; classic Jiangsu green taste: bright, fresh, no astringency.
2117	Huang Mountain Hairpoint	A full flavored, sweet-tasting green. Very good value; lasts through 2-3 infusions.
2120	Gold-Flecked Rare Green Fancy	Almost Tung-Ting-like leaves. Has a floral fragrance and multifaceted finish; from Anhui.
2121	Gold-Flecked Rare Green
2172A	Lingering Clouds Grn Maofeng
2176	Mei Tan Clouds & Mist Green Maofeng	An early export tea with grey-green leaves; robust taste.
2178	Green Tranquility Maofeng, Fancy
2178A	Fog Green, Fancy
2179A	Fog Green
2180	Green Tranquility Maofeng
2180A	Green Tranquility Maofeng
2247	Young Hyson
2260	Daily Green Hairpoint
2261E	Chunmee, EU	Finest leaf; good, slightly smoky flavor.
2261A	Chunmee
2268	Summer Green Iced Tea Blend	A friendly Green, good as a hot tea but well suited for iced tea; does not turn lean or thin as the tea cools.
2281	Pinhead Gunpowder, Extrafine	Very neat in appearance; tightly rolled, glossy grey leaf "grains". Glossy, grey-green, tightly rolled leaves. A popular, affordable classic. Add mint for a Moroccan touch.
2281A	Pinhead Gunpowder, Extrafine
2283E	Pinhead Gunpowder, Special, EU
2283A	Pinhead Gunpowder, Special
2284	Gunpowder, First Grade
2286	Gunpowder

CHINA GREEN TEAS (CONT'D)		VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
2427	Gyokuro "Jade Dew"	Gyokuro-like; sweet with no raw edge. Long, narrow, dark green leaves; pronounced natural fragrance.
2452A	Spring Sencha	A classic steamed green tea.
2454E	Sencha, EU
2455E	Sencha, EU (case only)
2466M	Matcha-Infused Genmaicha (Japan)
2467E	Genmaicha, EU	Sencha with roasted rice and popped rice. A friendly introduction to Green teas.
2467A	Genmaicha
2478A	Bancha (China)	Deep amber in the cup with a high roast finish.
2485	Hojicha
2782	Decaf Green Maofeng (CO ₂ method)
2783	Decaf Green (CO ₂ method)
6128	Silver Dragon Pearls, Pre-Qingming	Made in spring when new tea is harvested; no jasmine scenting.
JAPAN GREEN TEAS
2435	Kukicha, Fancy (Japan)	Hand-plucked, hand-cut with scissors before the stems are separated. From the Shizuoka region, notable for its fine teas. Yellow hues; not the brown "twig" type. Sweet, soft taste.
2451	Sencha, Supreme (Japan)	A "deeply steamed" Sencha; the process makes for some broken leaves but the tea is richer in flavor and the steaming seals in freshness.
2466	Japanese Genmaicha
2494	Matcha, Ceremonial Grade (Japan)
2495	Matcha, Culinary Grade (Japan)
JASMINE TEAS
	Green tea scented with natural jasmine blossoms; flowers are typically removed after scenting for top grades.
3002	Jasmine Snowdrift	As its name suggests, the budsets show a lot of downy white; made in early June.
3005	Jasmine Silver Needles (white tea)	An extravagant tea; feathery white buds, delicate tea flavor.
3010	Super Yin Hao Jasmine	More and thicker silver sproutings than the Yin Hao.
3011	Yin Hao Jasmine	Finest slender leaves with abundant silver tips. Flowers have been removed after scenting and hardly any petals remain.
3011A	Yin Hao Jasmine
3051	Chur She Jasmine	Traditional Fujian standard, one grade above Special Grade Jasmine.
3041A	Chun Hao Jasmine
3101A	Jasmine, Special Grade
3119	China Jasmine, First Grade	Fine leaves, many tips, some petals; full flavor. A great standard to stock; offer it iced for warm weather.
3122	China Jasmine (blossoms added)
3151	China Jasmine	Good uniformity in leaves; tea has flowers and petals.
3161	China Jasmine
6136	Fancy Jasmine Downy Pearls	Silvery tips carefully shaped into small round pearls. Compare quality by looking at the proportion of bud to stem in the wet leaves. Quality of plucking and scenting account for price difference; the standard grade is a great value. (Beware of jasmine pearls that have one or two long strands wrapped around a core of broken tea leaves.)
6137E	Jasmine Downy Pearls, EU Compliant
6138A	Jasmine Downy Pearls
6139	Jasmine Pearls
6142	Jasmine Golden Pearls Black	A hand-crafted artisan tea composed of jasmine-scented green tea leaves tied together with a pink amaranth blossom in the center. Each piece is about the size of a Red Globe grape, and the tea leaves unfurl and "bloom" into a flower when steeped. A visual treat with solid jasmine flavor.
6336	Blooming Jasmine Ball Tea

As tea crafters themselves are wont to say, Oolong is a “fussy” tea to make. Withered leaves are tossed and shaken to bruise the edges of the leaves and to begin oxidation. The extent of the shaking, of oxidation and drying is variable, making this a complex tea in the best sense. From the Light/Fragrant style that shows green-tinged rolled leaves to the more robust style that shows dark, thick leaves, Oolongs provide something for everyone. Pale golden cups offer floral notes; medium oxidized teas brew up an apricot-colored cup with layers of flavor; deep amber brews yield smooth, deeply aromatic cups.

4016A	Floral Oolong (Nepal)	Good value for this hand-rolled, semi-oxidized tea; closest comparison would be a Taiwan Silver Tip.
4020	Fushoushan (Longevity Mtn) Oolong	Still hand made, from gardens found at the island's highest elevations.
4021	Li Shan (Pear Mountain) Oolong
4022	Da Yu Ling (Taiwan)	Deeper flavor than other high mountain teas; layers evident after repeated sips.
4024	Shanlinxi Oolong
4025	Alishan Oolong (Taiwan)	Perhaps the most famous of Taiwan's high mountain teas; Alishan is a mountain preserve in Chiayi County.
4026	Honey Oolong (Taiwan)	Many high mountain teas grow at high altitudes and come with matching prices; yet many are light in flavor. The fragrance from this tea is immediate and stellar, with a sweet honey finish that justifies the splurge, especially if one remembers that nothing was added to enhance the tea.
4027	Hong Shui (Red Water) Oolong
4028	Gwei Fei (Emperor's Choice, Taiwan)	Very difficult to choose between this and the Honey Oolong, and so both are on offer. The concentration and tightly focused aroma and taste are exceptional and beguiling, inviting sip after sip. For those who wish to venture beyond TiKuanYin, this is a worthy option that will prove captivating.
4029	Tien Chi (Taiwan)
4030	Jade Oolong	Robust floral notes and some heft in the body; a fresh and friendly sweetness.
4034	Tung Ting Oolong	Tightly rolled green leaves, flecked with gold. Available for a brief time only each season. Sweet, floral - very accessible Oolong.
4036	Tung Ting Oolong, Medium Roast
4038	Taiwan Mountain Oolong, Baked
4232	Silver Tip Oolong (Taiwan)	Aromatic with peachy notes.
4236	Fern Stream Oolong	Remarkable aroma, deeply complex and satisfying.
4255	Formosa Oolong, High Roast	Robust, hearty style.
4361	Wuyi Rou Gui Rock Oolong
4362	Wuyi Rou Gui Rock Oolong	The term "Rou" means "meat," and for a peasant society where meat was an extravagance, this word signifies a lavish tea. "Gui" refers to cinnamon or bark, hinting at this tea's distinctive aroma (though not one of cinnamon). The fragrance eludes easy description; white peach comes to mind, as well as "fruity but not floral."
4366	Dan Gui Rock Oolong	The name may be unfamiliar, but this is the "dan" as in Mudan (White) and "gui" as in Rou Gui. This Wuyi Rock Oolong offers high aroma that fills the room, with the complexity in flavor for which Oolongs are known.
4371	Da Hong Pao Rock Oolong
4373	Da Hong Pao Rock Oolong	One of the best known Oolongs from the Wuyi mountains in Fujian. Brews a deep gold-light amber cup. Wet leaves give a dramatic, high mountain aroma. Mild, smooth taste with an elegant, almost austere, fragrant finish.
4373A	Da Hong Pao Wuyi Rock Oolong
4383	"Honeysuckle" Oolong
4386	Dark Wuyi Oolong
4387A	Wuyi Oolong
4390A	Shui Hsien Oolong
4392	Shui Hsien Oolong	Described as having a natural orchid-like flavor; good for many infusions with a lingering fragrance; clear, bright, amber color. Friendly finish without fire.
4396	Shui Hsien Oolong (case only)

Produced in the only authentic Tie Guan Yin region – Anxi, Fujian – Tie Guan Yin teas undergo a labor-intensive series of steps, primarily rolling and separating the leaves after carefully monitored oxidation. Two major categories: the 'light-floral' style that evokes plumeria, and the 'traditional' medium roast teas that have toasty grain in the aroma with a long finish.

4402	Gold Guan Yin	From a hybrid; exquisite floral notes in a golden cup.
4413	Jade Guan Yin, Special Grade	A lighter hand during the oxidation process produces a "greener" Oolong with less fire that yields floral notes inherent in the leaves. Recommend you try it cold: I get notes of peaches, slightly grilled. Two really good drinking teas.
4415	Tie Guan Yin, First Grade	This 1st grade Ti Kuan Yin offers a good balance of roasting and delicate flavor.
4418	Fragrant Fruit Mountain Oolong
4422	Tie Guan Yin, Med. Roast, High Gr.
4423	Tie Guan Yin, Med. Roast, Special	Yields a fruity cup; round, soft, and mellow with hints of the distinctive TKY strength. Often served in gong-fu tea sets, and it is said that repeated cups can be intoxicating, as the fragrance and flavor do invite sip after sip.
4423A	Tie Guan Yin, Special Grade
4427	Tie Guan Yin, Medium Roast	Traditional teahouse standard; good for multiple infusions.
4428	Tie Guan Yin, High Roast	High roast, good through many infusions.
4430	Tie Guan Yin, High Roast
4482	Hairy Crab Oolong, Light-Floral	The tea leaves are covered with a fine white down, hence the name "Hairy Crab". The fragrance of this tea has
4533	Imperial Gold Oolong
4553	"Orchid" Oolong, Floral Style	Very good fragrance that follows through to the flavor. Golden colored brew, medium body.
4557	Scholar Mountain Oolong	A great find and good value for a fruity, aromatic oolong. Garden elevation: 1000 meters
4561	Osmanthus Oolong	Osmanthus flowers (in simple syrup) are used as a garnish in Chinese desserts. The same gentle fragrance enhances oolong tea; no flavoring is used.
4562	Magnolia Oolong, EU	Naturally scented.
4581	Sechung Oolong, Special Grade	The dark leaves lead one to expect some fire, but the brew proves otherwise. The cup is a light golden amber
4583	Sechung Oolong	and gives a long lovely fragrance. Full of flavor in the mouth, this is a tea with some finesse and without a strongly fired taste.
4602	Song Imperial Court Single-Trunk Oolong
4607	"Plumeria" Single-Trunk (unscented)
4608	"White Peach" Single-Trunk	Superb peach notes from this tea from a tree (no flavoring). Full flavored even when cooled.
4610	"Honey Orchid" Single-Trunk
4611	Phoenix Single-Trunk Oolong	Dan Cong Oolongs have become better known recently, and rightly so. These largish leaves plucked from tall trees yield an unsurpassed fragrance that mingles flowers and dried fruit (especially longan). The finish is long, and the tea yields several infusions with concentrated nectar notes. This is well priced for such a distinctive tea; a real winner. Its very long finish makes it ideal for those who enjoy brewing their tea with gaiwan or gongfu pots. Use less tea and you'll have an aromatic, lighter cup; use a bit more tea and its powerful, concentrated flavor comes to the fore. Also good when cooled.
4632A	Volcano Oolong
4862	Milk Oolong	Inspired by the Jin Xuan tea that yields the aroma of cream, this flavored Oolong offers the surprising but satisfying pairing of lightly oxidized tea with milky notes, an addition that rounds out the flavor.
4866	Ginseng Oolong	Ginseng powder and licorice coat oolong leaves; the licorice imparts a slightly sweet note to the tea.

PUER TEASVeriLeaf True Teas Corp.

Puer is made from Yunnan tea and stored to age after oxidation. The most popular cooked puer teas are oxidized and then aged. Puer is also compressed into cakes, bricks, "bowls" (tuo cha), and other shapes. Molding the leaves requires a brief injection of steam; this small step alters the character of the finished compressed tea, and puer connoisseurs prefer these over loose puer. "Uncooked" puer begins as unoxidized tea, and the leaves undergo slight, natural oxidation as they age. For compressed teas, break off small pieces to brew, or steam the entire cake/brick to loosen the leaves; spread the leaves out and allow them to dry completely, then store in a lidded

5021	Yunnan Large-Leaf Puer, Very Old	Very dark brew, yet smooth and showing the best of aged cooked puer.
5022	Yunnan Tribute Puer	Fine leaf, tribute style
5024	Yunnan Puer, Very Old	A smooth, richly flavored puer. A consistent bestseller; for the true puer devotee.
5051	Yunnan Menghai Puer, Special	Slender and long leaf with long stalks, rich earthy flavor.
5110A	Uncooked Puer
5245A	Yunnan Puer	Gong-ting or Palace style = smaller leaves
5252	Yunnan Puer
5255	Yunnan Teahouse Puer	Large, bold leaf; earthy, full flavor. Top grade for teahouses and Dim Sum meals.
5310A	Puer Mini Tuo Cha	Cooked puer conveniently sized for brewing.
5330	Jasmine Green Mini Tuo Cha
5350	Puer in Tangerine Peel
5360	"Sticky Rice" Puer Mini Tuo Cha (uncooked)
5380	"Sticky Rice" Puer Mini Tuo Cha	Not made with actual rice, but the addition of an herb that resembles roasted rice, rounding out the puer taste and yielding an appealing aroma.
S301	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake (~357g)	From year 2012.
S302	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake (~357g)	About the size of a Frisbee, this compressed tea is prominently displayed in tea shops in southwestern China. Robust, hearty flavor.
S303	Cooked Puer Mini Cakes	Individually wrapped, 9 grams per cake, approximately 50 cakes per pound.
S304	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake (~100g)	From year 2019.
S306	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake (~100g)	From year 2018.
S307	Cooked Yunnan Puer Cake (~100g)	From year 2020.
S580	Yunnan Puer Tea Brick (~250g)	Aged 2-3 years. When loose puer leaves are compressed into cakes or bricks, steam is added before molding. This step alters and improves the flavor of puer as the tea is allowed to age.
S586	Puer Mini Bricks	6.5 grams per brick, approximately 70 bricks per pound.

YELLOW TEAS

After withering and de-enzyming, leaves are covered with a clean cloth. This brief "smothering" process forces out more fragrance from the tea and imparts a slight yellow hue to the leaves. The pan-firing process is of shorter duration than that for green teas.

5411	Huo Mountain Yellow Sprouting	Another of Anhui's big-name teas, this Yellow tea shows beautiful budsets. "Fresh" and "sweet" are the most distinctive features, with an unmistakable orchard fragrance. Huo Shan is not a single mountain in western Anhui but is the name of the district, where there are several mountains that rise to over 5000 ft. 75% of the county is deeply forested, and all villages are supplied by natural water sources.
5416	Snow Dragon Yellow Buds	Plump buds tell the story about the precise plucking and the quality of the raw material. With some knowledge of yellow tea processing, you're sure to find a layer of flavor reflecting that added step when leaves are covered. The taste is clean and sweet, and surprisingly satisfying given the predominance of buds. This is a single plucking tea.
5422A	Simao Yellow Tea

WHITE TEAS

5511	Silver Needles	Comprised entirely of buds with silvery white down. Also known as Flowery White Pekoe or Yin Zhen. No question about the high quality of the tea material, yet I have wished for more flavor. However, this batch exhibits a floral note that I have rarely encountered in this tea, and it is truly a delight to have taste matching the tea's appearance. Pre Qing Ming
5511A	Silver Needles (Fuding)
5511E	Silver Needles, EU Standard
5510	Fuding Silver Needles
5521A	Himalayan Snow Buds	Long silvery tips nestled among classic white peony green and tan-colored leaves. Pale gold brew with a delicate, slight toasty flavor.
5600	Super White Peony
5601	Mudan White, Premium Silver Tip
5601A	Mudan White, Premium
5611A	Mudan White, Special Gr.	Open, flat to slightly curled leaves show how white teas are minimally processed with natural drying and no rolling.
5611E	Mudan White, Special Grade, EU
5621	Mudan White, First Grade
5621A	Mudan White, First Grade
5621E	Mudan White, First Grade, EU	Some people prefer a Shoumei over a Mutan white because the slight degree of oxidation in Shoumei makes for a more flavorful cup, imparting a characteristic toasty or nutty flavor. This grade brews a robust cup with an orange liquor.
5840	Shoumei White

FLAVORED BLACK TEAS		VeriLeaf True Teas Corp.
1810	Fancy Earl Grey	Blue and white cornflower petals blended into scented fancy-grade congou.
